

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A container device includes a container and a first receiving member. The container has a bottom wall and a surrounding wall that extends upwardly from a periphery of the bottom wall to define a first accommodating space. The first receiving member is connected removably to the bottom wall of the container, and defines a second accommodating space therein.